Foreword

Specialized dictionaries are among the most important requirements of technical experts with which they are more capable to better understanding and mutual communicating with each others. Not only the technical terms, but also the technical abbreviations and acronyms, are needed for such communications.

Keeping these facts in mind, as an experienced expert of Inmarsat communication systems, I felt that a dictionary of Inmarsat terms and abbreviations is something too much needed for those who want to study Inmarsat documents or serve in the Irmarsat department of telecom companies of their own country. This was the incentive for me to do all my best to compile a collection of definitions of all the terms defined and the abbreviations coined in the Inmarsat company since of its inauguration in 1972 till now. The result is what you have in your hands now.

In compiling this dictionary, I have utilized an innovation. If you pay attention on the appearance of the pages, you will notice something similar to the former web pages of www wikipedia.com having many hot spots. The Italicized words (hot words) in the definitions means that those words are a separate entry in the dictionary to which you may refer to for further information. Before the definitions of terms and after the expansions of abbreviations also added a word or another abbreviation (between two parentheses) indicating the subject of word or the Inmarsal system they are related to. I hope this dictionary be a small pace on the path of promoting inmarsal services world wide.
