Preface

The necessity of benefiting from the world scientific achievements, which are mostly in English, on the one hand and our need to share our scientific achievements with others on the other hand makes learning English a must for all would be scholar students.

Students of curriculum studies for whom this book is designed are of no exception. Therefore, the effort is taken to select and compile the material in a way to cover the most basic theoretical and practical concepts to further help students to comprehend the major concepts as they are improving their English.

This book is composed of eight units covering Concept of Curriculum, Curriculum Types, Factors that Influence Curriculum Design, Models of curriculum design, Curriculum Designing Patterns, Curriculum Implementation and its Evaluation and Curriculum Change and Innovation.

Since this is my first effort, by no means have I considered it free of faults; I therefore welcome students and colleagues' views and comments. I'll be more than happy to receive your views throw the following address: s.nourabadi@yahoo.com.

In providing this book, I am indebted to my family for their patience, to Dr. Dabiri and Dr.Khademi for their valuable ideas and comments.
